

7 Reminders For Building Children*

by S. Truett Cathy,
Founder and Chairman of Chick-fil-A

- 1. Every child I know who overcame long odds and grew into a responsible adult can point to an adult who stepped into his or her life as a friend, mentor, and guide.
- 2. Don't be too concerned that your children don't listen to you. But be very concerned that they see everything you do.
- 3. Be so consistent in your discipline that you're boring.
- 4. Stop arguing in front of your children.
- 5. You may think children have outgrown the desire to be rocked to sleep at night. They haven't.
- 6. Children will never believe in the covenant of marriage unless they see you living it with their own eyes.
- 7. How do you know if a child needs encouragement? If he or she is breathing.
